TIPS:

- Use quotation marks around words you want to search as a phrase: “air pilots”
- The left hand side of the search results page allows you to filter results such as scholarly, by date, magazines, business-related, etc.
- Once you get to an article, there will be links that will let you e-mail, print, save. Usually at the top or the right hand side of the page.
• As you find articles make sure to look for more keywords or the subject terms that these articles have. Use these in subsequent searches.

• If you want to create a link to an article you find, do not copy the URL at the top of the page. Instead, look for the Permalink, Persistent Link or Document URL. This is usually found at the bottom or right hand side of the page.

• Most articles also provide APA citation. This is not always accurate. Double check against MRU’s APA guide.

You can also use Google Scholar (scholar.google.com) to search MRU library databases. For home/laptop access select: Settings → Library links.

Google scholar only includes peer-reviewed/scholarly sources (not magazines).

After conducting a search things to notice include:
1. If its within any MRU database the Full-Text link will show up. You can also click the title to see the article.

2. Clicking “Cited by” will bring up all articles written after this one that included it in its references. “Related articles” finds similar articles.

3. Go to the Advanced Search menu to improve your results.
